Reasons for Allowance

The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: The closest prior art, Cohen et al. discloses a system and method for handling purchasing transactions over a computer network using pre-paid cards as the medium of exchange between a consumer and a merchant wherein after the consumer selects the pre-paid card option, a description of the selected salable items is sent along with the purchase item request to an administrative server. The user record is accessed and the description is then compared to pre-stored categories in the user record. If the description does not fall in a prohibited category, then the transaction is allowed to proceed. If the description does fall in a prohibited category, then a message is sent to the consumer stating that prohibited goods have been selected. In a similar manner, the consumer may be prompted at the activation site for particular merchants to prohibit purchases therefrom. The prohibited merchant list would also be stored in the user record to be recalled for comparison during the actual purchasing transactions. It is clear from the description of Cohen et al. invention that the prior art does not considered the possibility of "removing the regulated item from an electronic shopping cart associated with the customer based on one or more predetermined criteria" as recited in independent claims 72, 108, and the possibility of "removing the regulated item from an electronic shopping cart associated with the customer based on one or more predetermined criteria and delivery time" as recited in independent claims 101.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
